Long Emerges From the ator Ross of Vermout on the constitu-Porto Rican Conflict

Rican tariff bill is passed; an issue for the national campaign is made; the is over, and a Kansas representative has emerged from the fray with a national reputation. That Kansas representative is the member from the Seventh district -Mr. Long.

It is from the committee of ways and seans that leaders of national parties come; it is that committee that really ontrols and embraces the organization o the dominant party.. It is that committee that shapes the legislation and policy of the country. When Mr. Long was placel on the committee, while he had many warm friends and admirers in congress, there were those of national repute in the Republican party in the house who thought that possibly the speaker had made a mistake when he placed the young Kansan on this important committee. The speaker, however, was confident of his choice, and willing to abide by it. The speech the Kansan made on the tariff bill when it was first considered by the house made him conspicuous. It (opened the eyes of the doubters; it added to the admiration of his friends. It satisfied the speaker. It was spoken of highly by the president and his cabinet. It was taken, by the hundreds of thousands, for distribution by the national committees of his party.

But this speech was not all. Much as it adde to Mr. Long's prestige, there were other things to distinguish him later. They came with the return of the amended bill from the senate. Grave doubts were entertained by Republican leaders, of the possibility of the house concurring ing the bill. It was a serious question. The majority was not large. It was decreased by the disaffection of Republicans. It was only possible to secure a the solution, the representative from the Seventh district came, selected by the speaker and his fellow-associates of the majority of the committee of ways and means. It is no slight task to handle the pairs on the final passage of a great piece of legislation. It is a task that is an arduous one at best. It takes skill and political manipulation, and it was herein that its, pursue or carry on the business of Mr. Long's chility as a political organizer, bill posting without first having paid a the results of which are known to Kanlicense tax therefor for six months to san through the splendid Seventh district organization, came into play. Mountain View Man Says There are Oklahomans

OPPOSED TO THE MEASURE

Senator About It.

(Special Correspondence of the Eagle.) Washington, April 14.-A man in Oklahoma opposed to free homes actually has been found! This discovery was made by the receipt of a letter by a prominent senator from W. H. Gray of Mountain View in which the attempt is made to show that there is a large class of people in the territory who do not desire the proposed legislation. Gray writes from Asheville, N. C., where he is evidently visiting, but writes upon a letter head which shows that he is a general merchant at Mountain View. Gray insists that the people of Washita county do not want free homes. He says that the people derive greater income from the grass rentals than they would if the Klowa-Comanche country were opened up. He is decidedly against the latter proposition. With regard to free homes, Gray says that many people have come into this country and merely scratched the soil and made the barest improvements, preparatory to selling out. He declares that the people don't believe in Flynn's sincerity in this measure. It might be worth while to add that the senator to whom Gray wrote is in favor of free homes, and that the effect the letter was probably expected to produce will not result. In fact, Gray to the contrary, free homes seems to be popular at both ends of the line at present.

Frank Hodgen of Enid, a candidate for the position of Custodian at Fort Supply, in case of Mr. Bickel's resignation, is in Washington. Mr. Flynn says that if Mr. Bickel resigns no one olse will secure the United States senate. It isn't often that position, because the land will be sold, although he is trying to have it held for soldiers' homes,

The other day in the senate Mr. Pettigrew of South Dakota offered a free homes amendment to the Indian appropriation bill. This brought Mr. Thurston to his feet with a point of order, in connection with which he spoke as follows: "I am heartly in favor of the free homes proposition, and will be glad to co-operate with the senator from South Dakota in securing legislation of that character at this session of congress. In both houses bills for that purpose, free Washington as a senator, and speak a are upon the calendars of the respective houses. I believe from what I hear that the free homestead bill is sure to pass the house. I know from the sentiment shown at the former sessions of congress it is sure to pass the senate, and I have no doubt we can secure that very desirable legislation at the present session. I do not feel, however, that this legislation should be forced upon the pending appropriation bill in violation of the rules of the senate, and I feel compelled to interpose the point of order that the proposed amendment is new egislation and not germane to the bill."
